LANE STUDENTS GRADUATE AND TRANSFER TO TOP UNIVERSITIES ALL OVER THE USA AND AROUND THE WORLD

More than 92,000 international students and more than 45% of American students study at a community college on their way to receiving a university degree. In the United States, nearly all bachelor's degrees (also called 4-year degrees or undergraduate degrees) require a general education curriculum during the first two years of study. Both universities and community colleges offer general education classes to meet these requirements. This means that you will spend two years at a community college meeting the general education requirements, plus two years at a university completing the major-specific requirements.
